The perfect synergy between past and present can be breathtaking to witness if it's done right. That's exactly what we have in this stunning circa 1890 family home. Decades of love and attention combine with tasteful modern updates to throw down the gauntlet to modern home designers - try and match the level of quality in this bluestone single fronted villa on a 731sqm block of land. It's going to be difficult!

The visual allure of the home begins with the street frontage, where the picket fence, a beautifully-tended garden and a stunning bluestone façade present an eye-catching picture. The quaint front porch, complete with cast iron lacework and leaded windows, offers a warm welcome into the interior.
